□□□ [□□□□] This content is an expansion of the bonus content in Perfect Memento of Touhou. You need to have Perfect Memento of Touhou to play this content. Corrected version of this content is also on the PlayStation Store. You can download the patch by re-downloading or opening the latest update of Perfect Memento of Touhou. Questions and Answers Here is the list of questions, and the answers for them. Explanation Please scroll down to the end of this section for the answers. Questions 00.01. Could you explain the method you use for calculating the difficulty? 00.02. The difficulty of the main game is based on an average of three related items, "Points", "Critical Combos" and "Near-misses". What are each of the three items? 00.03. Some information regarding the "Average" bonus and the "Near miss" bonus are written in red, could you tell us what each is? 00.04. Are there any secrets regarding the "Average" or "Near miss" in the main game? 00.05. When I replay the game with the various difficulty settings, the scoring "Near misses" is different. Could you tell us what the scoring system is for the "Near misses"? 00.06. If you increase the level of difficulty, the "Near miss" bonus will get higher. This is due to the difference in the number of enemies appearing in one stage. However, the value of the "Average" bonus is also different. Could you explain the reason why? 00.07. In the case of the "Near miss", can you please tell us the conditions for earning a "Near miss"? What is the scoring system? 00.08. Regarding the number of Near misses in a single stage, there is a limit, right? When the number of Near misses reaches the limit, will the game "bail" and end? 00.09. What will happen if the "Near miss" is "bailed"? 00.10. When playing the main game for the first time, the "near miss" bonus is displayed at 100%. Then, if I replay the game with a certain difficulty setting, the bonus will go down,

What's new in Sol Survivor:

I have been praying in Virtual Reality for over a year now. I've been using a variety of VR, like GoogleCardboard or GearVR or even the HTC Vive. I recently switched to Samsung Gear VR, and with the release of the new version I've been hearing more and more about VR experiences for the Christian market, such as "Visit a Medieval Christian Church", "Experience a Medieval Christmas", but there's been very few examples of using VR for this purpose out in the wild for me, so I decided to create a couple of my own, that I've found are at least worth sharing on here. So firstly lets just get these out of the way. Yes, in order to do VR, you WILL need a Samsung Gear VR. It's really hard to find a great Gear VR to start with on Amazon at the moment, so I'd really recommend getting one from

Amazon, clicking on that list or product and ordering it off there, but if you don't have a chance to get an Amazon order in there quick, if you can buy one in a friend's or work place or local supermarket that's perfectly fine. They have the purpose built Christians but are just as great for anyone else, and I'd recommend that before you buy one as there's a LOT of different makers out there, so ask the seller for advice if you aren't sure which one you'd like. As for a high quality Google Cardboard, or even Gear VR, that's fine, but the 5 or 6 grams of extra if you have a Cardboard is just over $20, and they both DO work great no matter what you use, I have both, and in both my struggles have shown me that in a minute or two you're in a higher quality experience. So briefly, a 1080p high quality 5.6-6g VR GearVR sells for about £150-£175 from Amazon UK, and a little better for the USA, but you can get small ones near the price for around £30. In the UK, 5.6g GearVR will be available in Play Station or PlayStation VR, but 3g version can be found for a decent price in Steam, but I'd recommend looking out for them as they're quite hard to come by.

Surgeball is a first-person, team-oriented ball sport with a retro-futuristic aesthetic. There are couple of twists, you can only move the ball by shooting it, and everyone is on jet powered skates. In the game, you are a ball and you have the freedom to move and jump through the city. Each match, you must compete to be the first person to reach one of the 4 goals. You must choose your hero, carefully balancing mobility, dealing with enemies and finally reaching the red or the blue goal. Use the terrain and enemy to your advantage and keep in mind that the game is often unfair. The ball rolls too quickly and the enemies are never going to let you go. Music by Epidemic Sound. Additional thanks to: Mark T. Hosking, Adam Waldron and Joe Banasiak for building the ball, and David Valente for his help with the visuals. Disclaimer: All rights go to Surgeball. Game Rating: This is a student project that was developed solely by one person over 7 months, with very little outside help. There is no profit involved. The game is free.
